

Eastern Diamondback Rattlesnake (Crotalus adamanteus). Venomous. Only native to southeastern North Carolina, recognizable by the distinct diamond pattern on their backs. Rattlesnakes are pit vipers, so their triangular heads, vertical pupils (and the rattles) let you know they're venomous.