

Mole Kingsnake (Lampropeltis rhombomaculata). Also known as the yellow bellied or prairie king snake in other states.

Nonvenomous. A subspecies of kingsnake found in all of North Carolina except for a thin strip along the Appalachian mountains.

This photo is from Texas, so technically the prairie kingsnake subspecies.